QUARTERLY REVIEW

The DGHM MidCap Value portfolio underperformed the Russell Midcap Value benchmark this quarter, as it appreciated ~1.0% on an absolute basis while the benchmark appreciated ~1.4%. We outperformed our peers by ~30 basis points for the quarter. (Peers are represented by the Lipper Midcap Value Index. Comparisons versus the Lipper Index are net of fees.) For the longer term, we are besting the Russell Midcap Value benchmark on a trailing 1, 3, 5 and 10 year basis.

Leading our performance on a relative sector basis this quarter were the Miscellaneous Financials and Consumer Durables sectors, while the Consumer Staples and Consumer Services sectors were laggards. In the Miscellaneous Financials sectors, both Northern Trust Corporation (NTRS) and CIT Group Inc. (CIT) outperformed. The common theme is strong capital levels for both companies which could lead to a further buybacks and dividend increases. In the Consumer Durables sector, Whirlpool Corporation (WHR) drove performance due to optimism regarding global appliance shipment trends. On the negative side, in the Consumer Staples sector, our underperformance was due to United Natural Foods, Inc. (UNFI) which sold off on concerns of increased price competition and proposed consolidation in the grocery sector following the announcement that the company's largest customer, Whole Foods Market, Inc. (WFM), would be acquired by Amazon.com, Inc. (AMZN). We have exited the position. In the Consumer Services sector, Regal Entertainment Group (RGC) underperformed during the quarter due to a weaker than expected film slate. We believe the full-year film slate should be strong, and we continue to hold the name.

During the quarter we remained active, purchasing three new positions in the MidCap portfolio, which were funded through the sale of four positions. The stocks we purchased were Kennedy-Wilson Holdings, Inc. (KW), Enerplus Corporation (ERF), and Tyson Foods, Inc. (TSN). The stocks we sold were DDR Corp. (DDR), PDC Energy, Inc. (PDCE), PTC Inc. (PTC), and United Natural Foods, Inc. (UNFI). We ended the quarter with 40 stocks in the portfolio.

We would like to highlight the recent purchase of Tyson Foods, Inc. (TSN), a leading food producer focused in the protein sector. The company offers a wide range of fresh, frozen and refrigerated food products and operates across four segments: Chicken, Beef, Pork and Prepared Foods with primary brands including Tyson, Jimmy Dean, Hillshire Farm, Ball Park, and others. The company sells its products to grocery retailers/wholesalers, meat distributors, industrial food processing companies and restaurants. We are bullish because it is a diversified protein producer with branded growth momentum. In addition, its value-added strategy should result in a higher and more stable earnings profile as cost savings and improved mix should drive margins higher. Furthermore the AdvancePierre acquisition will improve food service channel exposure and is EPS accretive. Financially, TSN has a solid free cash flow (~7% yield) which allows the company to reduce debt and repurchase shares. We believe there is strong potential upside for TSN shares that trade at a more "commodity-like" multiple and look attractive relative to peers.
